

cycle of some courses and will continue as long as we have interested students. We would still like to see the program offered somewhere in the greater Louisville area but as of yet, we have not had any firm commitments for a location or instructor. If any of you in the Louisville area have any ideas, please do not hesitate to contact me.

We had an excellent piece about the Society and our certification program come out in the magazine "Kentucky Living" in the March issue. Since then, we've had a number of requests for information from people who did not know we existed. We've always had a problem with actively marketing our Society. Any and all efforts are, of course, appreciated as we all have busy jobs. We do what we can and will continue to do so.

Our Spring Meeting and Natural Bridge State Resort

Our spring conference will be held at the Natural Bridge State Park and the Red River Gorge Geological Area and guest speakers from around the region.

This year's spring conference will feature a presentation by Matt Kuster from the University of Cincinnati on "Syn-photogenic Red Species" on Friday evening. Saturday evening our guests from the Tennessee Native Plant Society, Dennis Mann and Todd Catron, will discuss "Wildflowers of Tennessee and the Ohio Valley" and Julian Campbell of the Kentucky Nature Conservancy will give us a brief update on "The Kentucky Flora Atlas". Early arrivals can learn a little about the "Nonnative Plants of Natural Bridge" and what is being done to
